HOUSE BILL NO. __________

Introduced by Representative Jorge “PATROL” Bustos

EXPLANATORY NOTE

“The Police are the public and the public are the police.”
- Sir Robert Peel,
Father of Modern British Policing

No less than the 1987 Constitution supports the creation of an auxiliary force, as stated in Section 4 of Article II, Declaration of Principles and State Policies:

“The prime duty of the Government is to serve and protect the people. The Government may call upon the people to defend the State and, in the fulfilment thereof, all citizens may be required, under conditions provided by law, to render personal military of civil service.” (emphasis supplied)

This bill seeks to create a Public Safety Reverse Force (PSRF) composed of a pool of reservists for the purpose of augmenting the Philippine National Police (PNP), the Bureau of Fire Protection (BFP) and the Bureau of Jail Management and Penology (BJMP) in our response against imminent threats of criminality, unforeseen disasters and calamities, and emergencies. Likened to the Armed Forces of the Philippines Reserved Command, this bill will allow ordinary citizens to become police and public safety officers themselves under specific and well-defined circumstances.

Over the past few years, the population of the Philippines has ballooned to almost 109 million (PSA, 2020). Ideally, the police-to-population ratio has been set at 1:500 and the fire personnel-to-population ratio at 1:2000 (Sec.27 of DILG Act of 1990, or R.A. 6975). Corollary, the country’s current police force of 220,000 personnel and fire personnel force of 25,000 are sparse and in dire need of support, considering also the fact that only half of these personnel complement are on active duty at any given time.
According to recent studies, many government policies and programs could have been fully effective if we are able to bridge the gap in reference to the lack of collaboration and integration among stakeholders (Hudson, 2019), encouraging the emergence of apathy and indifference especially to those who need it the most – the general public. While the whole-of-nation approach has been used to fuel public support, involvement and integration should be actualized in the mindset of our people, so that ownership and permanence can be maintained in the keeping of peace and order in our respective communities.

Under this measure we foresee a country with the most ideal ratio under the tenets of the exclusivity and participatory vigilance. The goal is to have at least one (1) Public Safety Reservist per household/family.

Therefore, in accordance with PATROL Party-List’s advocacies of public safety and national development, I am pushing forth this bill that is seen to mobilize a nation with its citizens taking an active role in the pursuit of public safety towards a safer, strengthen, and progressive country of every Filipino family.
