EXPLANATORY NOTE

Access to quality education remains a major challenge in the country. Many parents and students continue to struggle in covering costly matriculation and other school fees. According to the Philippine Statistics Authority (PSA), the educational dimension has the highest incidence of deprivation among families at 59.3 percent in 2016 and 49.4 percent in 2017. This means that 6 out of 10 families and 5 out of 10 families were deprived of basic education, respectively. The PSA data also reveals that the common reasons for not attending schools were family matters, lack of personal interest and high cost of education or financial concerns.

These figures have worsened due to the dire effects of the COVID-19 pandemic. The pandemic caused financial problems for many families forcing some to transfer their children from private schools to public schools where tuition is free. In addition, the Department of Education noted that at least 2.3 million children have not enrolled for SY 2019-2020.

While the government has promulgated policies to address these challenges, some remain inadequate and inaccessible for the public. Republic Act No. 8545 or the “Government Assistance to Students and Teachers in Private Education Act” of 1998 provides for a SNPLP mechanism. Section 9 of the said law, however, is self-limiting, and only covers students enrolled in private academic institutions at the tertiary level.\textsuperscript{3} Moreover, the Government Service Insurance System (GSIS) in 2020 has also implemented a P20-billion SNPLP, but only applies for the college education of its members’ kin. Further, the members are only entitled if they have rendered at least 15 years in government service.\textsuperscript{4}

This proposed measure seeks to ensure that all Filipinos are given the opportunity to access quality education. It shall establish the Study Now, Pay Later Program (SNPLP) for students in both public and private educational institutions to ensure that their education is not impeded by financial constraints. In this light, the State must prioritize granting quality education to everyone to promote social mobility, inclusivity, and equality.

In view of the foregoing, the immediate passage of this measure is earnestly sought.
