EXPLANATORY NOTE

Article XIV, Section 9 of the 1987 Constitution mandates that the State promote physical education and encourage sports programs, league competitions, and amateur sports, including training for international competitions, to foster self-discipline, teamwork, and excellence for the development of a healthy and alert citizenry. Truly, investing in athletic talent at the earliest possible time would foster the future generation of national athletes, thus ensuring that the country remains competitive in international sporting events.

However, sports and other physical activities have other understated positive effect on the youth, and on society as a whole. Aside from being an easy and enjoyable way to maintain good physical health, it could also greatly improve mental and social well-being and foster among the youth important values such as team-spirit, self-discipline, and sportsmanship. Furthermore, studies have shown that sports and athletics can be a powerful tool for reducing crime rates by diverting at-risk individuals from delinquent behavior.<sup>1</sup>

Clearly, creating avenues for youth to engage in athletic activities would go a long way in creating well-rounded citizens. One of such avenues would be making already existing facilities and establishments more accessible to youth of all backgrounds, which is the measure that the present bill forwards.

Thus, the passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
