INTRODUCED BY REP. PM VARGAS

AN ACT
PROVIDING FOR A NATIONAL POLICY IN PREVENTING ADOLESCENT
PREGNANCIES, INSTITUTIONALIZING SOCIAL PROTECTION FOR TEENAGE PARENTS, AND PROVIDING FUNDS THEREFOR

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Adolescent pregnancy is among the most serious concerns faced by young Filipinos today. The 2017 National Demographic and Health Survey (NDHS) shows that one in every 10 young women 15-19 years old has begun childbearing. Data from the 2017 NDHS also reveal that age group 15-19 years old is the only age group that continues to register an increase in fertility rate, the lowest contraceptive prevalence rate, and the highest unmet need for family planning.

The Philippine Statistics Authority (PSA) recently released data on pregnancy of very young adolescents (10-14 years old) in the Philippines in 2019. The data confirm that there is an upward trend in pregnancy of very young adolescents, with 2,411 girls who gave birth in 2019. This is equivalent to seven very young adolescents giving birth per day in 2019. This number increased three-fold—from 755 in 2000 to 2,411 in 2019—in two decades. Overall, 62,510 children gave birth in the country in 2019.

In addition, data from the civil registration system also suggest that majority of early pregnancies may be a result of sexual exploitation and abuse, rape, or incest. According to data from the civil registry, more than 130,000 of more than 180,000 live births among 10-19-year-old women were fathered by men older than 19 years old.

Early pregnancy has many negative and sometimes irreversible effects on the social status, health outcomes, and development prospects of a girl and her child that often rob them of their dreams and a future that they want. Child- or minor-headed households are often the birthplace of intergenerational poverty.

This bill seeks to address the need to establish a national policy that addresses adolescents' sexual and reproductive health needs and reducing the adolescent birth rate significantly through the following: access to critical information and services, culturally sensitive and age- and development-appropriate reproductive health education, and social protection programs for adolescent parents.

In view of the foregoing, the immediate passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
